Victorian penmanship, basically cursive handwriting, was very essential. It was almost mandatory for each and every person to have his or her handwriting practice, may it be in school or at home. Penmanship, or the art of writing by hand, was a skill that Victorian people pride themselves with since their primary mode of communication is longhand, among other names) is any style of penmanship in which some characters are written joined together in a flowing manner, generally for the purpose of making writing faster, in contrast to block letters. Formal cursive is generally joined, but casual cursive is a combination of joins and pen lifts. The writing style can be further divided as
