Harold and the Purple Crayon (1955)
"One evening, after thinking it over for some time, Harold decided to go for a walk in the moonlight." So begins the first of Johnson's books about Harold and his purple crayon, and then off he goes, using the crayon to draw a moon and a path to walk on.

The overarching theme of Harold and the Purple Crayon is deciphering reality.
As an oddly ambiguous and usually assumed idea, the discussion of "reality" will throw the children into a fun and active topsy-turvy discussion of what it means to be real, and how one gives
